

Modern Slavery Statement

2023 – 2024

This is a voluntary statement published in accordance with the Modern Slavery Act 2015. It sets out the steps taken by the Power Plant Training Limited (PPTL) to prevent modern slavery and human trafficking in its business and supply chains.

About Power Plant Training Ltd

PPTL is a private limited company, which launched in the UK in 2022. PPTL is a training provider specialising in the power generation sector.

PPTL is committed to maintaining a non-discriminatory and respectful working environment for its staff. PPTL is committed to ensuring that there is no form of modern slavery or human trafficking within our organisation or in our clients within the industry.

Actions

In preparation for publishing our first voluntary statement, PPTL has taken the following steps:

-Informed, and attended training webinars available to, all employees about the Modern Slavery Act 2023, types of forced labour, general indicators of modern slavery, and how to report suspected incidents.

-Established processes to ensure new and existing suppliers align with PPTL commitments to the Modern Slavery Act 2015.

Performance indicators

PPTL will use the following to measure the success and suitability of steps taken.

- Completion of training by employees and following assessment score
- Completion of supplier assessment by PPTL.
- Instances of non-compliance.

This statement has been approved by.

Shantelle Deller, Director of Power Plant Training Ltd
Phil Crutchley, Director of Power Plant Training Ltd